

Wrongful Death Lawsuit Against Con Edison

September 18, 2013 • News & Press

Diegojaf22 / Wikimedia Commons / CC BY 3.0

Wigdor LLP is currently co-counsel in a wrongful death case against Con Edison. Together with the Cochran Firm, the firm represents the family of Ms. Lauren Abraham, a 23-year-old woman who was electrocuted by a downed power line in Queens during Hurricane Sandy. The action alleges that Con Edison was negligent in failing to implement technology to de-energize a downed power line and respond to the downed power line that caused Ms. Abraham's death.

New York Daily News

"Mom of Queens woman killed by severed wire during Hurricane Sandy sues Con Ed for failing to shut down power"

September 18, 2013

Read at nydailynews.com

New York Post

"Mom sues Con Ed after daughter electrocuted during Sandy"

September 18, 2013

Read on nypost.com

The New York Times

"Con Ed Sued Over Woman's Death in Hurricane"

September 18, 2013

Read at nytimes.com

WCBS AM

Listen to audio

1010 WINS AM

Listen to audio