

Wigdor LLP Represents Rape Victim In Gender Motivated Violence Act Lawsuit Against Christopher Dawson

July 13, 2020 • News & Press

Wigdor LLP represents a woman who was raped by Christopher Dawson, as alleged in a lawsuit filed July 9, 2020 in New York State Supreme Court asserting claims under the Gender Motivated Violence Act ("GMVA").

As set forth in the Complaint, Taylor Lawrence was the Head of Marketing & Investor Relations at Wellspring Capital Management LLC ("Wellspring ") from approximately September 2010 through January 2018. As alleged, Ms. Lawrence was raped by Christopher Dawson, the son of Wellspring's CEO, William ("Bill") F. Dawson, while at Bill Dawson's apartment.

As set forth in the Complaint, when Ms. Lawrence told Bill Dawson that his son had raped her, Bill Dawson responded by saying: "I will destroy you. I will ruin you" if Ms. Lawrence ever pursued those allegations.

The GMVA permits victims of sexual assault to seek civil recovery for acts of violence committed because of an individual's gender. Wigdor LLP was one of the first firms to utilize the GMVA in connection with its representation of the hotel maid in the Dominique Strauss-Kahn sexual assault case.

Statement from Douglas H. Wigdor and David E. Gottlieb:

"As the filed complaint makes clear, Christopher Dawson appears to believe that his privilege and wealth allow him to behave with impunity. We look forward to using the Gender Motivated Violence Act to hold him accountable for raping Ms. Lawrence so that she can begin the process of moving | forward with her life.”
